Investment strategy

SKAGEN m2 provides exposure to a normally difficult to access global real estate market. The fund selects low-priced, high-quality real estate companies from around the world. The fund is suitable for those with at least a five year investment horizon. Subscriptions are made in fund units and not directly in stocks or other securities. The benchmark reflects the fund's investment mandate. Since the fund is actively managed, the portfolio will deviate from the composition of the benchmark.

Q1 commentary, March 2025

The global real estate market posted negative returns in March but performed better than the broader equity market index. SKAGEN m2, with its lower exposure to the US, outperformed the global real estate index both year-to-date and in March.

Several central banks held rate meetings in March. The ECB implemented its sixth cut to the deposit facility rate, reducing it by 25 basis points. The US Federal Reserve kept its policy interest rate unchanged and now projects two rate cuts this year. The Norwegian central bank maintained its interest rate following significant recent changes in inflation data. Meanwhile, in Japan, the ten-year government bond yield rose above 1.5% for the first time since 2009.

In March, the fund's top performer was Vinhomes, the leading housing developer in Vietnam, well-positioned to benefit from both cyclical and secular growth in the country. Vinhomes reported a solid fourth-quarter performance and has seen an influx of foreign buyers as sentiment around real estate stocks improves and fundamentals continue to strengthen. The second-best performer was Helios Towers, a telecommunications tower owner and operator serving customers across Africa. Helios continues to meet its targets and expects strong revenue growth in the coming year. The biggest detractor from the fund in March was US digital infrastructure asset manager DigitalBridge, which underperformed due to heightened macro volatility, the tech sell-off, and inflationary concerns. We believe the share price decline has been excessive, and that the market is undervaluing the company's significant earnings potential in the coming years.

The fund's top performer for the quarter was CTP, a leading owner and operator of logistics properties in Central and Eastern Europe. The company delivered a strong FY24 report and continues to meet its ambitious growth targets. Its strategic landbank provides a clear path to future growth with attractive development yields. The second-best performer was Helios Towers, followed by Brookdale, a recent addition to our portfolio and a US senior housing operator. Brookdale reported results in line with expectations and continues to show improvement in occupancy, which is expected to boost EBITDA margins and contribute to deleveraging. After our investment, activist investor Ortelius Advisors took a position in the company, which we view as a positive catalyst for change. The fund's bottom performers for the quarter were DigitalBridge and Equinix, both of which were impacted by heightened macro volatility, the tech sell-off, and inflationary concerns, as mentioned above.

Listed real estate continues to benefit from strong cash flows, with signs indicating that the real estate cycle is moving in the right direction. Historically, listed real estate tends to recover first in such cycles, suggesting that the current downturn could present a good entry point into the sector. We remain focused on resilient companies operating in trend-driven subsegments that are undervalued but have the potential to thrive across various market conditions. These companies typically have solid balance sheets, which is becoming increasingly important as financials improve across the sector. The portfolio remains strategically overweight in high-growth real estate segments, including digital real estate, housing, and warehouses – sectors that are poised to benefit from structural demand trends and a shifting yield curve as interest rates decline. Given that real estate is the world's largest asset class, it warrants attention – don't overlook the opportunities it offers!
